Dear [Hiring Manager / Company Name],

I am a Computer Science student at Weber State University, expecting to graduate in Spring 2025, and I am excited to apply for an internship or entry-level opportunity in software development. I'm eager to apply what I've learned in the classroom to real-world projects and continue growing as a developer in a professional environment.

During my studies, I've gained a solid foundation in programming concepts, full-stack development, and software engineering principles. I particularly enjoy designing efficient systems and creating user-friendly applications that solve meaningful problems. While I am still building my professional experience, I take pride in being responsible, self-motivated, and always willing to learn from new challenges.

Beyond academics, I am very social and thrive in team environments where collaboration and communication drive success. Whether it's contributing ideas in a group project or learning new technologies to improve outcomes, I approach every task with dedication and a positive attitude.

I would appreciate the opportunity to bring my enthusiasm and growing technical skills to your team. Thank you for considering my application — I look forward to the possibility of contributing and learning from your organization.

Sincerely,
Jeims Molina
